After the previous five successful international interdepartmental conferences (organized by the Faculty of Economics and Business, University of Zagreb in 2020 and 2021, the Faculty of Economics and Business, University of Belgrade in 2022, the Faculty of Economics in Osijek, Josip Juraj Strossmayer University in Osijek in 2023, the Faculty of Economics – Skopje, Ss. Cyril and Methodius University in Skopje in 2024), the Department of General Economic Theory of the Faculty of Economics, University of Niš, continues the tradition and invites the academic and professional public to participate in the 6th Interdepartmental Conference on the given topic.

In periods of crisis, which have economic and non-economic causes, numerous challenges arise for economists to find a way out of the crisis and propose effective solutions at different levels of decision-making. The global economy's main problems are achieving sustainability and advancing digitization, i.e. attaining high economic growth rates while protecting the environment and social justice. The goal of the conference is to exchange knowledge and research results in a narrow circle of researchers, primarily from the academic community, who deal with similar issues, promoting positive experiences in the form of examples of good practice and encouraging discussion in order to formulate proposals for economic policy measures for decision-makers at all levels. In addition, this conference provides opportunities to create closer ties between research community members in the region. It opens new possibilities for future cooperation for joint research activities.

The invitation is sent to all members of the Department of General Economic Theory and related fields to submit an abstract and paper on one of the following topics related to the new challenges facing economic theory:

- Economic growth and development
- Economic history
- Development of modern economic thought
- Political and institutional economy
